

The quantum

By gee ...

28 November 2013

The innocent lads of St. Kevin's Christian Brothers College, Toorak head for the water unaware that later in the day the Education Minister

Mr. Pyne will personally present the school with its quantum, rumoured to be more than enough to aircondition the boat house!

Behind closed doors the Minister will assure them there is no difference at all between their quantum and the quantum he gave the Jesuits'

Saint Ignatius' College, Adelaide only yesterday to finance the schools' long overdue interpretive dance facility (replacing the gum tree, above left)

Then the lights will dim and the tired, happy boys will watch a short video of the Prime Minister explaining the odd world of the quantum where the exact same particles passing through his lips at that moment were passing through Mr. Pyne's arse at that exact same time!

*(Disclaimer: A non-religious type, Gee was once surprised by being hired as a teacher by a Christian Brothers college.
Allegedly, they both survived this encounter and, indeed, Gee claims to still have friends from that time and place.)*
